

Interactive Tax Assistant (ITA)

Answers to Your General Filing Questions

What is the due date of my federal tax return or am I eligible to request an extension?

Filing Information

As a calendar year filer, your regular filing due date is generally April 15, 2025.

When the due date (including extended due dates) falls on a Saturday, Sunday or legal holiday, a return filed on the next business day is considered timely.

Extension Information

You can get an extension to file your tax return if you need the time to meet either the bona fide residence test or the physical presence test to qualify for either the foreign earned income exclusion or the foreign housing exclusion or deduction. You should request an extension if all four of the following apply:

- You are a U.S. citizen or resident alien.
- You have foreign earned income.
- You expect to meet either the bona fide residence test or the physical presence test, but not until after your tax return is due.
- Your tax home is in a foreign country (or countries) throughout your period of bona fide residence or physical presence, whichever applies.

If you are granted an extension, it generally will be to 30 days beyond the date on which you can reasonably expect to qualify for an exclusion or deduction under either the bona fide residence test or the physical presence test. However, if you have moving expenses that are for services performed in 2 years, you may be granted an extension until after the end of the second year.

To obtain an extension, file Form 2350, Application for Extension of Time To File U.S. Income Tax Return, either by giving it to a local IRS representative or other IRS employee or by mailing it to the:

Department of the Treasury
Internal Revenue Service Center
Austin, TX 73301-0045

You must file Form 2350 by the due date for filing your return. Generally, if both your tax home and your abode are outside the United States and Puerto Rico on the regular due date of your return, the due date for filing your return is extended to 06/16/2025.

You should file Form 2350 early enough so that if it is not approved, you can still file your return on time.

Payment Information

Form 2350 does not extend the time to pay taxes. If you do not pay the amount due by the regular due date, you will owe interest. You may also be charged penalties. If you believe you should not be charged any penalties for either late filing or late payment, attach a reason to your tax return and not the Form 2350.

For information on paying your taxes electronically, including by credit or debit card, go to www.irs.gov/payments.

Disclaimer

The conclusions above are based on information provided by you in response to the questions you answered. This does not constitute written advice in response to a specific written request of the taxpayer within the meaning of section 6404(f) of the Internal Revenue Code.

Review Screen

What tax year are you asking about? 2024

What is the accounting period in which you file your tax returns? Calendar year

Do you want to know if you are eligible to request an extension, or are you inquiring about the due date of your return (including any extended due dates)? Requesting an extension

Will you (or your spouse, if married filing jointly) be living outside the U.S. and Puerto Rico on 4/15/2025? Yes

Will your (or your spouse's, if married filing jointly) main place of business or post of duty be outside the U.S. or Puerto Rico on 4/15/2025? Yes

Are you requesting an extension to file your tax return because you need time to meet either the bona fide residence test or the physical presence test to qualify for either the foreign earned income exclusion or the foreign housing exclusion or deduction?

Yes

Are you expecting a refund? No

Print